

Associations Between Fathers' Masculinity Orientation and Anticipated Reactions Toward Their Child's Coming Out

Dirk Kranz
University of Trier
(Germany)

Dataset: kranz_fathers.sav/.csv (SPSS file/comma-separated values file)

Code	Variable
alter	Age
sexo	Sexual orientation
bez	Relationship
taetig	Job
hne	Net household income ghmk	Common household with child/ren nkind	Number of children sexkind	Sex of children jka	Age of youngest child jkg	Sex of youngest child cgrel	Housework/childcare activities (%) bwrel	Household/family income activities (%) masc1 ... masc10	Items of the Masculinity Scale hn1 ... hn16	Items of the Attitudes Toward Homosexuality Scale emo1 ... emo16	Items of the Emotional Affective Reaction Scale beh1 ... beh6	Items of the Behavioral Reaction Scale

Code

kranz_fathers.sps (SPSS-File): Analyses except for the mediation analyses kranz_fathers_mediation_1.amw (AMOS file): Core mediation model* kranz_fathers_mediation_2.amw (AMOS file): Reverse mediation model* kranz_fathers_mediation_3.amw (AMOS file): Mediation model using the log10 transformed DV*

* Please use the Amos26-Indirect Effects plugin by James Gaskin (Brigham Young University, Provo, UT). It estimates all specific indirect effects, including serial and parallel mediation. Make sure to use this with the Specific Indirect Effects estimand. Plugin and estimand are available at <http://statwiki.gaskination.com/>